JAC STANDS UNITED WITH THE PEOPLE: 'NO' TO RELOCATION - "MURILEYO IDU, BAAJILEYO IDU"

The Joint Action Committee (JAC) has noted an open invitation circulating on social media calling for a debate on the so-called issue of relocation of the Chakma and Hajong communities.

Let it be made absolutely clear — the JAC was formed to oppose any move for relocation. Our people have spoken with one voice: relocation is not acceptable and will never be accepted.

Therefore, there is nothing to debate. The matter is closed. Any attempt to reopen it through public discussion is unnecessary, misleading, and a waste of time and energy.

Moreover, the proposal for a debate was floated without any consultation with the JAC. It appears to be an effort to sensationalize a deeply emotive issue rather than contribute to any constructive solution. JAC appeals to our Chakma and Hajong brethren to stay alert and NOT be swayed by any misleading information or false propaganda.

The JAC's position is final and non-negotiable — the Chakma and Hajong communities will neither move nor be moved from Arunachal Pradesh, the land where our parents and forefathers were settled more than six decades ago and where generations have since lived, worked, and contributed.

This stand was reaffirmed during the Referendum Rally on 26 September 2025, where the people, under the leadership of the JAC, adopted the historic resolution:

"Murileyo Idu, Baajileyo Idu" — "We live and die here."

Therefore, the issue of relocation is not up for debate, discussion, or dilution.

The JAC urges all concerned to focus on constructive engagement — building understanding with neighbouring communities, strengthening dialogue with government authorities, and ensuring peace, justice, and coexistence under the sovereign republic of India.

The JAC will not participate in or endorse any forum, debate, or event that seeks to question or undermine this collective stand. Our focus remains firm: to protect the rights, dignity, and future of our people.
